Steelers ravens 2020 live

(Getty Images) The Steelers advanced to 11-0 on Wednesday despite an uninspiring effort against the short-handed Ravens. Pittsburgh squandered several red zone trips and dampened a point in its 19-14 win. It also nearly blew a late 12-point advantage, needing a tough catch from James Washington in traffic to prevent Baltimore from getting the ball back with the chance to take the lead in the final two minutes of regulation. As expected, the Ravens offense struggled without Lamar Jackson, Mark Ingram, J.K. Dobbins or Willie Snead IV. Before a 70-yard touchdown grab by Marquise Brown with 2:58 to go, the depleted group, which was subbed for Robert Griffin III in the fourth quarter in quarterback Trace McSorley, managed just 40 passing yards. It was surprising, then, that the Steelers never managed to pull away. Should they continue to make the mistakes they made against Baltimore, their unbeaten point won't last much longer. Coach Mike Tomlin used the term unacceptable several times in his postgame news conference to describe his frustration. We didn't play well or coach well tonight, Tomlin said.
